Mapping Your Resilience

- Bottom level: Traits and skills that lay the groundwork for resilience.
- Next level up: Steps that you took to manage stress and continue to function well during the challenging time.
- Top two levels: Steps you took to get through the stressful situation. (These steps usually demonstrate an increase in resilience and are built on a strong foundation that already exists.)